FOR GOVERNOR,
MAJ. GEN. JOHN W. GEARY,
OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The Paris Exposition.
Mr. Sumner, reported, with amendments, the joint resolution to provide for the expenses attending the exhibition of the products of the United States at the Exposition of Paris in 1867.
The amendment, in the form of a substitute, is as follows:
Joint resolution to enable the people of the United States to participate in the advantages of the Universal Exposition at Paris in 1867.
Resolved, That the people of the United States to participate in the advantages of the Universal Exposition of the Products of Agriculture, Manufactures and the Fine Arts to be held in Paris in the year 1867, be and they are authorized to appropriate, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the purposes specified, are hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.
First—To provide necessary furniture and fixtures for the proper exhibition of the productions of the United States, according to the plan of the Imperial Commission, and the part of the building exclusively assigned to the use of the United States, $48,000.
Secondly—For the compensation of the principal agent of the exhibition at the United States, at the rate of $2,000 a year (provided that the period of service shall not extend beyond sixty days after the close of the exhibition,) $4,000, or so much thereof as may be found necessary.
Thirdly—For office rent at New York, for fixtures, stationery and advertising, for rent of storehouses, for reception of articles and products, for expenses of shipping, including cartages, &c., for freight on the articles to be exhibited from New York to France and return, and for compensation of four clerks in connection with the joint resolution approved on the 13th of January, 1866, and contingent expenses, the sum of $35,700, or so much thereof as may be found necessary.
Fourthly—For expenses in receiving, boarding, storage, cartage, labor, etc., at Havre, and railway transportation from Havre to Paris, including and returning, for labor in the Palace, for sweeping and painting, and for other necessary expenses, for guards and keepers for seven months, for storing packing boxes, cartage, and for material for repacking, for clerks, stationery, and contingent expenses, the sum of thirty-five thousand seven hundred and three dollars, or so much thereof as may be found necessary.
Fifthly—For the traveling expenses of ten professional and scientific commissioners, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, at the rate of one thousand dollars each, ten thousand dollars, if being understood that the President may appoint additional commissioners, not exceeding twenty in number, whose salaries shall not be paid.
Sec. 2. That the Governors of the several States be, and they are hereby requested to invite the patriotic people of their respective States to assist in the proper representation of the handwork of our artisans and the prolific sources of material wealth with which our land is blessed, and to induce such further assistance, and to disseminate a knowledge of the proposed exhibition, and to secure to their respective States the advantages which it promises.

MANIFESTO FROM STEPHENS THOMPSON.
He Has Escaped from His Republic and Enjoys French Protection—He is Coming to America—The "Republican in Ireland" as Well as Could be Expected—He is Coming to Harmonize his Brethren.
HEADQUARTERS "PENNA. BROTHERHOOD,"
New York, April 5, 1866.
To the Penna. Brotherhood:
It is my duty to announce to you the arrival in Paris of James Stephens, C. E. I. R., and to prepare for his coming to the United States.
Four days previous to his leaving Ireland, he dispatched a Special Envoy to your Irish Centre, with instructions to report the following facts concerning him to you: That he had reached the French Capital in safety.
I informed the American and Irish public throughout that he left the organization in Ireland in good condition, and that he had since the recent Penna. scandal had begun in America, and had cast a gloom over the hopes of all true lovers of freedom, and that he had placed his value of his Government in the hands of a pretent, devoted and well-tried leaders to direct it during his temporary absence.
Second—That he went to Paris on most important business, connected with the present struggle for Irish nationality, and not because he had been forced to do so by the enemy.
Third—He is now coming to the United States in the peace of restoring a harmonious council and a connected action among all true friends of Ireland on the American continent, to reconcile all discordant elements, and to unite loyal for his suffering country to all liberty-loving men throughout the world.
His stay will be short in our midst. Let us receive his advent to these shores as a joyful event, and let us all unite in welcoming him to our country, his high talent and stern dignity deserve. May the discord and hateful jealousies vanish from among us at his approach.
May they cease to exist forever to be the full and constantly recurring destroyers of our hopes for national resurrection.
I remain, in fraternal fourth—your obedient servant, JOHN O'MAHONEY, H. C. F. B.

Confession of Green, the Maiden Murderer.
The Boston Advertiser publishes the following confession of Green, the murderer of Mr. Converse, the teller of the Maiden (Mass.) Bank.
To ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: This is a true, just and correct statement of facts relating to the murder of Frank E. Converse.
I do solemnly and truly declare my heart that I never premeditated, contemplated or thought of committing the deed until I went into the bank the second time that morning.
The first time I went in was to get a $10 or a $20 bill changed. I do not recall which it was.
The second time I went in was to get a $1 bill on the Maiden Bank changed for a whole one, as that one was much mutilated. It was given to me by Mr. C. L. Falk and when he gave it to me he made the remark that he thought when the bill went into the bank it would not get out again, as it would be replaced by a new one. During the forenoon I carried it up to the bank to get it exchanged, and went for no other purpose whatever.
I had been threatened by different parties to be killed, and was informed by a lawyer of the same.
The thoughts of being sued for debts which I could not pay worried me so much as to cause me to be so weak that I had no control over myself.
When I saw the money, the temptation and excitement came upon me so great and sudden that I carried away the money, and with it, and I went down to the postoffice, got my pistol, and went back to the bank and committed the deed in that excited and thoughtless moment, and took away the money.
After I had begun to realize the great wrong I had done, I wished I could restore it back; but I could not bring back the life I had taken, and as I had the money, I did not know what to do with it, so I went on disposing of it and paying my debts until I was arrested.
My debts began at the time the office was broken into in July, 1860, and robbed of stamps to the amount of between $400 and $500 worth.
I did not inform the department of the loss, for fear they would think I was careless in leaving the property unprotected, and I was afraid they would take the office away from me. When I made out my quarterly returns I charged myself as having that amount on hand. It was my intention to pay up the loss by instalments at different times.
My troubles began by the mismanagement of the school-book accounts. I had sold school books for the town, and in not keeping any regular account of their money from my own I had spent the money, not thinking whose money I was spending until I found myself greatly in debt. Then I was in trouble, and did not know how to get out of it.
Then I attempted to burn the post-office in order to burn up all its contents, and thought I might succeed in paying my debts. I had heard that the reason I did not burn the post-office in I thought of the people who lived in the building. I thought they would not have any chance to escape, and so I gave up that idea. I had next building adjoining the office, thinking that it would burn enough of the office to destroy all its contents.
But I failed in accomplishing that, and then my troubles grew worse and worse, until I was arrested in this awful deed.
The fire was several weeks before the murder was committed.
I am now in writing this statement in order to show the facts as I saw them, and to show that it was not a premeditated, forethought act.
I am yours,
EDWARD W. GEARY.

COMMODORE VANDERBILT.
The Master of Wall Street—His Vast Steamboat Enterprises—How he Became the Railroad King.
New York Correspondent of the Rochester Democrat.
Those who have access to the Directors' room of the Hudson River Railroad will often notice a tall, fine built man, whose rapid and penetrative glance and decided expression at once indicate peculiar force of character. This man from early youth has risen to the position of the American railroad king, and as such we shall briefly trace the steps of his progress.
About six years ago there dwelt on Staten Island a farmer named Vanderbilt, who, in common with other husbandmen of the island, based his produce to New York (then a city of some importance), who possessed out an advantage of 60,000 above his neighbors—the sailing of the vessel. From the increasing demand for its use he was led to make regular trips; in this way one of the largest ferries of the world had its inception. Commodore Vanderbilt found efficient aid in a son who was accounted "remarkably smart," and who, from his earliest years, was upon the water. Since his sixteenth year, he had been in the family of a pirate or small schooner, in 1812, he has become the largest ship owner of his day. During the war with England, when in his eighteenth year he was engaged in active service, and performed some daring exploits. Had he then been in command of a man-of-war he might have rivalled the victorious Commodore of Hall and Despatch.
The Staten Island ferry was run by wind and oar, and when the new scheme of steam power was developed Vanderbilt immediately saw its importance, and entered the service of Gibbons, the Philadelphia steamer owner, with whom he remained several years until he had thoroughly mastered this branch of navigation. He then left Gibbons and entered the service of Cornelius Vanderbilt, a wealthy merchant of New York, who had been in the family of a pirate or small schooner, in 1812, he has become the largest ship owner of his day. During the war with England, when in his eighteenth year he was engaged in active service, and performed some daring exploits. Had he then been in command of a man-of-war he might have rivalled the victorious Commodore of Hall and Despatch.

Christian injunction to "feed the hungry," and a Brother, proprietors of the New York Fanny, on Franklin Street, next North of McMillan's Poultry, are endeavoring to obey the will by the manufacture of Bread of all descriptions, Cakes of every variety and style, as well as in fact all that is usually found in a First Class Bakery. The famous Boston Brown Bread can be eating hot on Thursday and Sunday mornings.
